| Outline of Overseas Visits (About 300~400 words) | |
| The conference proper was divided into three days. The first and the last day covered mainly key-note speeches and parallel sessions, while the second day also included a half-day technical visit. One day before the conference, all board members (including the international advisory board) held a meeting to summarise the GMSARN activities of the previous year and to organise the final outline of the conference. Moreover, all papers were revised and edited to be printed in the conference proceedings, while a selected number of papers were selected to be further revised and edited, in order to be published in the GMSARN International Journal (quarterly). The possibility to extend co-operation schemes to other academic and non-academic institutions was discussed during this pre-conference day. | |
| Research Achievement on this Program (300~400 Words) | |
| The purpose of this single visit to Siem Reap, Cambodia, was the organisation of and attendance to the 7th GMSARN International Conference, titled "Green economy with energy, environmental and social responsibility". This is an annual event, which I have regularly attended for the last four years. Since 2011 I am a member of the international advisory board, in charge of the organisation of the conference sessions, of the balanced representation of all aspects of development in the Greater Mekong Sub-region, and of the possibility to invite new members into the board. The aim of this event, thus my personal purpose as one of its co-organisers, was to bring together a large number of experts from a variety of regional realities and with different expertise. A number of graduate students and young researchers were also invited in order to sensitise the broader audience on a comprehensive approach towards development in the region. My keynote speech and my paper will be published in the next volume of the GMSARN International Journal in the course of the year 2013. | |
