

CENTER FOR SOUTHEAST ASIAN STUDIES, KYOTO UNIVERSITY SOUTHEAST ASIA SEMINAR

THE 38TH

CONNECTIVITY IN SOUTHEAST ASIA

NOV.22 - 25, 2014
SIEM REAP, CAMBODIA

CONNECTIVITY has always been a part of Southeast Asian culture and nature and defined relations both within and beyond nations in the region. This seminar will explore and examine the interface between both old and new forms of connectivity in the region. Through multidisciplinary approaches that tackle the concept of connectivity, it will also shed light on how people, products and ideas are linked across spatial and temporal boundaries both in the past and the present.

Though four sessions "SCALE OF CONNECTIVITY," "MOBILITY AND CONNECTIVITY," "HUMAN-NATURE CONNECTIVITY," and "COMMUNICATIVE CONNECTIVITY" as well as field observations in Siem Reap, Cambodia, the seminar will examine how places and people have been connected and consider the multiple spatial connections in Southeast Asia, including migration flows, media, telecommunication lines, cultural diffusions, trade networks, resource flows, and social movements.
