Summary: The project was conceived as a result of the growing reality of East Asian regionalization. The program was aimed at promoting intellectual and academic exchanges between Japanese and Southeast Asian scholars in order for us to better understand the development of the East Asian regional system and its transformation. This year we start two new joint research projects that was the subject of this workshop "Entrepreneurship in East Asia -Political, Economic, Cultural and Social: Establishing a New Model of East Asian Political Economy" (2005 – 2008); and "The Changing "Family"" (to run also from 2005 to 2008). Our aim in this workshop is to share explore and exchange ideas on how we plan to undertake research on two themes, Entrepreneurship and the Family.
