Kyaw Minn Htin obtained his Bachelor of Engineering from Yangon Technological University, M.A. and Master of Research in Archaeology from Yangon University, Postgraduate Diploma in Asian Art from SOAS, University of London, and Ph.D. from the National University of Singapore. He has published numerous articles and participates regularly in international conferences on Southeast Asian Studies. His current research centres on the identity constructions, clash of nationalism, and citizenship issues of ethnic communities in Western Myanmar.

Phyo Win Latt is PhD candidate from the History Department of the National University of Singapore. He also holds a Master of Arts in Political Science awarded by the Master of Arts Program in International Development Studies from Chulalongkorn University in Bangkok. His thesis deals with the rise of xenophobic nationalism during the colonial Burma in response to the presumed threat to the identity and political economy of the Burmese caused by massive immigration from South Asia. He is also one of the four founding members of the Yangon based Asia Myanmar Research Institute (AMRI).
